This is the second of the final series of reports on retail trade presenting the results of the 1933 Census of American Business. The statistics were collected in 1934 by a field canvass of retail stores in every State, city and county in the United States, with funds provided by the Federal Civil Works Administration. They cover the operations of retailers during the year 1933.

The reports are prepared under the supervision of Fred A. Gosnell, Chief Statistician for the Census of American Business, by John Guernsey, in charge of Retail Distribution. Assistance in the preparation of statistical data was rendered by William A. Ruff, Assistant Chief Statistician, and James O. Reid, Retail Assistant.

RETAIL CENSUS REPORTS - FINAL SERIES: 1933

ARRANGEMENT AND CONTENTS OF VOLUMES

Volume I - U. S. Summary. Contains a general description of the Retail Census for 1933, definitions of terms and classifications, and U. S. Summaries, by kinds of business and by States, of Tables 1 to 6 and 10 to 12 contained in volumes listed below. It also includes tables providing an analysis of retail sales (Table 7), a summary of wholesalers' sales at retail (Table 8) and an analysis of receipts of service establishments (Table 9).

A separate section presents an analysis by size of city, of stores and sales classified into 11 kind-of-business groups. This analysis is carried through for each State and geographic division and summarized for the United States as a whole.

Comparisons with 1929 of the principal data by kinds of business are contained in a special table (Table A), which is presented separately for each State and in summary for the United States.

A chain-store section contains a summary of all known retail chains, classified by kinds of business, showing units, sales, stocks, employees and payroll in stores and in central offices, reported expenses in stores and in central-offices and the proportion prorated to stores.

Volume 2 - General Statistics, by States and 13 largest cities, by kinds of business (Table 1). Employment, by States and 13 largest cities, by kinds of business (Table 2).

Volume 3 - County Totals. Contains summary of stores, sales, proprietors, full-time employees and payroll for each city, town and county throughout the United States (Table 11), and summary by 52 kinds of business for each city of more than 50,000 population (Table 12).

Volume 4 - Analysis of Stores by Date of Establishment, showing for each State and for each kind of business the number and sales of stores established in 1933 (by quarters), those establishments between 1929 and 1933, and those in operation in 1933 which were also in operation in 1929 (Table 6).

Volume 5 - Credit Business. Contains analysis for each State of stores and sales by kinds of business, classified to show credit-granting stores separate from all-cash stores (Table 5).

Volume 6 - Chains and Independents and other types of operation- State totals, and more detailed analyses for 18 kinds of business in which chains are a more or less important factor (Table 3).

Volume 7 - Stores and sales by size of business. Shows stores and sales by kinds of business, classified in 10 size groups, by States (Table 4).

Volume 8 - Retail Distribution, 1933, by Areas. Stores and sales by 11 business groups, for States, counties and cities (Table 10).

Special Reports by Trades. Food Retailing, Variety-Store Chains, Department-Store Chains, Drug Retailing (including drug-store chains), Retail Employment and Wages, Automotive Retailing, Apparel Retailing and others. (Separate reports have been issued covering the above-named subjects; they are not brought together in a single volume.)

CENSUS OF AMERICAN BUSINESS: 1933VOL. 2 - GENERAL STATISTICS OF RETAIL DISTRIBUTION IN 1933 (TABLE 1)
AND RETAIL EMPLOYMENT, BY MONTHS (TABLE 2)

This is the second of the final series of reports on retail trade for 1933. This report summarizes in a more permanent form what had already been published in the series of State and City reports. It also presents some additional information, particularly on stocks, operating expenses and the distribution of employees. Terms and classifications in this report are defined in Volume I of this series.

Throughout the report comparisons are made with the data for 1929, collected and tabulated as part of the Census of Distribution for 1929. The significance of these comparisons cannot be overestimated; they reveal the nature and extent of changes which occurred in the retail field during the four years of unsettled business conditions. It is proper, however, to bear in mind that the conclusions based on these comparisons are subject to some qualification.

Although every effort had been made to insure comparability between the 1933 and 1929 censuses, the data are not strictly comparable on some points. The absence of perfect comparability is largely traceable to two factors. First, information in 1933 was collected on a shorter form than in 1929; the most notable omission in the 1933 schedule was the inquiry on distribution of sales by commodities; the absence of information on this point renders the kind-of-business classifications for 1933 somewhat less precise than the similar groupings for 1929. Second, the retail canvass for 1933 was carried through as part of a larger Census of American Business, which covered among other types of business also service establishments; for this reason the line of demarcation between retail and service establishments was drawn more definitely in the 1933 Census than was possible in the 1929 Census when service establishments were not canvassed.

Stores and Sales Compared

The total sales of retail stores in 1933 aggregated $25,037,225,000 which is 49 percent less than the $49,114,653,000 total of 1929. The number of stores in 1933 was 1,526,119, which is 1.1 percent less than the 1,543,158 stores in 1929. How much of the decrease in the dollar volume of sales is due to the decline in retail prices and how much to the reduction in the physical quantity of goods sold cannot be readily ascertained. The use of currently compiled retail price indices in this connection is a practice of dubious validity because the Census classification of establishments by kinds of business is based on the principal kinds of goods handled; the sale of other goods not reflected in the price index may account for a considerable proportion of total sales in certain kind-of-business groups. Moreover, the weighting used in the available price indices cannot be tested in reference to 1933 Census figures on sales in the absence of information on the distribution of sales by commodities.

The food group, due to the relatively small decline in dollar sales, advanced in relative importance to other kinds of business, accounting for 27.1 of total retail sales in 1933 against only 22.1 percent in 1929. Likewise, restaurants accounted for 5.7 percent of total sales against only 4.3 percent in 1929. In both groups the sale of beer, wine and liquor was added in 1933, but it is not likely that this addition is responsible for a large increase in sales of food stores and restaurants. The sales of beer-and-liquor stores and of drinking places account for less than 1.5 percent of total sales in the food and restaurant groups, although it should be noted that beer, wine and liquor are also sold in places other than those mentioned above.

The general merchandise group (department stores, dry goods and variety stores) also advanced in relative importance from 13.1 percent of total sales in 1929 to 15.5 percent in 1933. Among other advances were filling stations, from 3.6 percent to 6.1 percent, and drug stores from 3.4 percent to 4.3 percent.

A comparative summary for 1933 and 1929 of the percentage distribution of retail sales by kind-of-business groups follows:

Ratio of Sales to Total Sales, 1933 and 1929

Employment compared

Retail stores in 1933 engaged the services of 5,007,993 persons, of which 2,703,325 were full-time employees and 730,327 were part-time employees.

In addition to employees there were 1,574,341 proprietors actively engaged in the operation of their stores.

The decline from 1929 to 1933 in the total number of persons engaged in retail trade was 905,554, or about 15 percent of total retail employment in 1929. The number of full-time employees declined 1,130,000 (29.5 percent) in the four years since 1929 and the number of part-timers increased 161,000 (28.3 percent). The number of proprietors also increased nearly 64,000 (4.2 percent), despite a decline of over 17,000 in the number of stores.

The magnitude of the changes in employment since 1929 is so appreciable that, for United States totals at least, the result is not significantly affected by the differences in the method of computing averages for the year. Those, however, must be noted at this point. The 1929 schedule called for information on the number of employees in April, July, October and December, 1929, and at the time the canvass was made, whereas on the 1933 schedule information was requested for the payroll period ending nearest the fifteenth of each month, as well as for December 30 by sex.

The 1929 average was calculated separately for each schedule on the basis of information described above, whereas the 1933 average is the arithmetic mean of the twelve monthly figures. For purposes of comparison with 1933, the 1929 average for part-time employees was recalculated as an arithmetic mean of the four quarterly figures. This accounts for the reduction in the 1929 number of part-time employees from 676,559, a figure published in the 1929 volumes pertaining to the Census of Distribution, to 569,359, the figure used in the reports of the Census of American Business.

A part-time employee is defined by the Census as a person employed only a few hours or days of the normal work-week or other payroll period. The Census figures on part-time employees do not indicate what proportion of full-time was worked by them, but an approximation to this proportion can be established by comparing the average annual earnings of part-time employees with the average annual earnings of full-time employees. The average annual earnings of part-time employees are shown to be 34.2 percent of the average annual earnings of full-time employees, indicating that the average part-time employee works about one-third of the normal number of working hours or days of a full-time employee. On the same basis the average part-time employee in 1929 worked 21.6 percent of the number of hours or days of the full-time employee in that year. This increase in time worked, and the growth in numbers mentioned above, indicate the increased importance of part-time employment in the retail field.

Employment by Months

Employment is the only item in the 1933 Retail Census on which information was requested by months. The number of employees, therefore, is the only available Census measure of the change in conditions which occurred in the course of 1933. The summary below for retail trade as a whole shows that employment increased continually, but not evenly, each month beginning with April. A part of this increase undoubtedly reflects the operation of seasonal factors; the remainder may be credited to improvement in retail trade, and to government measures intended to increase employment, such as the President's Reemployment Agreement.

Table 2A, which shows for each month the number of full-time and of part-time employees by kinds of business; Table 2B, which shows for each month the number of full-time and of part-time employees by States; and State and City Tables 2, which show for each month the number of full-time and of part-time employees by kinds of business, afford a measure of the differences in the operation of seasonal and cyclical factors as between different kinds of business and different areas.

Employees by Sex

Tables 2A and 2B give also the average number of employees by sex and the proportion of women employees in each kind of business and in each State. Of the 3,433,652 employees in 1933, 2,360,474 (68.7 percent) were men and 1,073,178 (31.3 percent) were women. These proportions compare with 68 percent of men and 32 percent of women in 1929. The absolute figures in both years are estimates based on the reported proportions by sex on a particular date--December 30, 1933, and the date of the canvass for 1929. Neither figure includes central-office employees of chain store organizations, which are shown in a summary in Vol. I and in the several chain merchandising reports.

No analysis of proprietors by sex is available. The 1929 Census covering approximately the same number of proprietors showed that 91 percent were men and 9 percent were women. If in the absence of better data the same proportions are applied to the 1,574,341 proprietors in 1933, there is indicated a total of 1,432,650 men and 141,691 women.

The amount of payroll shown in this report is the amount paid to store employees in the form of salaries, wages, bonuses and commissions. It includes the compensation of corporate officers in incorporated establishments. In the case of a few large businesses operated by partnerships, the fixed compensation of managing partners paid over and above their participation in profits, is regarded as a salary comparable to salaries of corporate officers and is included in the payroll figures. The payroll excludes, however, the compensation of proprietors working in their own stores in lieu of employees, whose withdrawals of earnings are within the control of the proprietor. Central-office payroll of the chains is not included in store payrolls.

The payroll is reported in total and separately for part-time employees, thereby providing the basis for computing full-time payroll. Of the total of $2,910,445,000 paid to employees in 1933, $2,664,447,000 was paid to full-time employees and $245,998,000 was paid to part-time employees. Payroll cost in 1933 averaged $11.52 per $100 of sales compared with $10.57 per $100 of sales in 1929.

Average Earnings of Full-Time Employees

The average annual earnings of full-time employees in 1933 were $986 compared with $1,-312 in 1929, a decline of about 25 percent. This is perhaps the most accurate measure available of the decline in the rate of pay of retail employees. The decline was not uniform throughout the country. It averaged 19 percent in New England, 22 and 23 percent along the Atlantic Coast, 24 percent along the Pacific Coast, and as much as 28 percent in the West South-Central division, particularly Arkansas and Oklahoma. Table A by States presents these comparisons by Geographic Divisions and for individual States.

The average of annual earnings is obtained by dividing full-time payroll by the average number of full-time employees. Because the average number of employees for the year is obtained by averaging the numbers reported for pay periods ending nearest the 15th of each month, the two factors are directly comparable except for fluctuation in the number of employees within the month in those cases when the pay period is shorter than a month.

Since no breakdown of employees or payroll is available by grades or salary rates, average annual earnings may be somewhat misleading in some comparisons. In proprietorships, which constitute a very large proportion of retail stores (about 84 percent in 1929), the proprietors usually fulfill the functions performed in incorporated organizations by the one or two highest paid employees. In such proprietorships, most of which are small stores, the highest-paid employees may therefore be several classifications lower in the wage scale than the executives of incorporated stores. This factor tends to lower the average of annual earnings of full-time employees in independent stores as compared with chain units, whose payrolls include such store-operating executives as store managers, and part of the compensation of division superintendents. It also tends to bias comparisons between kinds of business in which the typical operating units differ appreciably in size.

The decline in average earnings of employees in the four-year period varied by kinds of business from as little as 15 percent in grocery stores and 18 percent in filling stations to as much as 34 percent in the case of employees of motor vehicle dealers. Variety stores constitute the only kind of business showing an increase in employees' earnings, the average having gone up from $706 in 1929 to $760 in 1933, or 8 percent.

The kinds of business which show less than the average (25 percent) drop in annual earnings of employees include the entire food group, the entire general-merchandise group (of department, dry goods and variety stores), the country general and farmers' supply stores, women's specialty stores, family clothing stores, auto-supply stores, filling stations, coal and wood yards, drug stores, jewelry stores and news dealers.

Stocks on Hand

Table A in this report shows that stocks on hand at cost or market, at the end of 1933, aggregated $3,903,969,000 compared with $7,262,583 at the end of 1929, a decline of about 46 percent, which is nearly as great as the decline in dollar sales. How much of this is accounted for by price alone cannot be determined with any accuracy, but it is known that the price of many consumer goods increased markedly in the summer and early fall of 1933 and probably is reflected in inventory values at the end of 1933. The ratio of stocks to sales in 1933 was 15.6 percent, compared to 14.8 percent in 1929.

Reported Expenses

Reported expenses, which include no allowance for proprietors' services declined greatly in dollar volume from 1929 to 1933, but the decrease was not proportionate to the decline in sales.

Such expenses in 1933 required $25.97 of each $100 of sales, compared with $21.12 in 1929. Of this total, payroll accounted for $11.62 in 1933 and $10.57 in 1929. These ratios include no provision for proprietors' services, nor do they provide for capital or management return to proprietors. The major factor in the increase, therefore, was expense other than payroll, such as rent, advertising, overhead and the like, many elements of which cannot be readily adjusted to increases and decreases in sales volume.

As has been pointed out before, the payroll of full-time employees was brought down by reduction of force and rates almost directly in proportion to the decline in sales; such payrolls declined 47 percent compared with a sales decline of 49 percent. However, part-time payroll increased 52 percent in dollars and, therefore, more than 100 percent in proportion of sales, bringing the decline in total payroll down to about 44 percent.

Computed Operating Expense

Reported expenses differ from computed operating expense, in that the latter includes an imputed compensation for the wage-value of the services of proprietors working in their own stores in lieu of employees.

Computed operating expense ratio in 1929 was 24.80 percent, which compared with the 21.12 percent of reported expenses described above. Presentation of material and textual discussion of operating expenses for 1933 is to be found in Volume I of this final series of Retail Census reports.

Description of Tables

Included in this volume are the following tables:

Table A is in two sections, one showing comparisons for 39 principal kinds of business in 1933 and in 1929 and the other presenting comparisons of similar data by States instead of by kinds of business. Only the United States summaries of Table A are included in this volume; the detailed tables for each separate State by kinds of business will be found in Volume I of the final series of retail reports.

Table 1 shows stores and sales, employment, payroll and reported expenses for 1933 by kinds of business. Separate reports are included for each State, in addition to a U. S. Summary by kinds of business (Table 1A) and by States (Table 1B).

Table 2 shows full-time and part-time employment separately by months, by kinds of business. This table also includes an analysis of total employment by sex. Separate reports are included for each State, in addition to a U. S. Summary by kinds of business (Table 2A) and by States (Table 2B).
